A NIGHT IN A STORM.

It was a private parlor of a hotel in the Provinces. Two men sat at a well spread breakfast table; the younger had just pushed back from the table with an impatient movement.

"No," he said abruptly, "I cannot eat, I cannot drink. If I believed in presentiments I should say I felt a warning of something disagreeable if not horrible."

"Well, then, my dear nephew," said the elder, "as you do not believe in such things, why not make yourself comfortable and enjoy your breakfast. You are not to start until to-morrow, anyway, you know."

The young man arose from his seat and walked to the window, throwing it open and looking out into the frosty brilliant sunshine. The air was intensely cold, and reddened his cheeks instantly. He drew in his head, saying

"I shall start this morning. There's going to be a storm, and I must go.—Will you accompany me to the station? The train starts in an hour."

The uncle shivered and drew his dressing-gown closer.

"No," he said, "I'll not leave the house unless I'm obliged to. I did not leave England to get frozen by a Canadian winter. I did not know you were so sentimentally foolish. Alice will not thank you for coming a day sooner. Women don't like a bridegroom around when the wedding preparations are going on, no matter how much in love they are. Take my advice, and stay here until the time appointed for you to start."

Robert Russell, the young man addressed, listened with grave civility to his companion's words.

What was such advice in comparison with the urgent cries of his whole nature? He had left England three weeks before, to claim the woman of his choice, who had been a year in Montreal, whither she had emigrated with her parents, carrying with her the love and promise of one in whom she believed with utter devotion.

Russell's uncle and adopted father had accompanied him, and now sat smiling at the impatience, the whims of youth.

"There is a storm riding in the air, in spite of the sunlight," Russell said, still standing by the window, "I should not enjoy being blockaded in by snow on my journey."

"Probably not; but you might as well expect it in this climate."

"Well, I shall take Alice back to England as soon as possible," Russell said, with his hand on the door. Good bye, uncle, then, good bye."

Russell was soon speeding from the town, his eyes looking eagerly forward over the vast stretches of snow as if he would outstrip even the steam which bore him.

He was not half through his journey by rail, when from the west, where it had lingered throughout the sunny morning, rose the filmy white veil that is the herald of snow. Weather-wise people looked out of the car windows and shook their heads, saying—

"This will be a hard one. It's just a year since the terrible storm that blockaded in this train."

Russell, looking, felt his face grow pallid in spite of his hopes, his youthful energy. He did not fear the storm while on the cars; he knew they would get to their destination before the storm would be sufficiently advanced to retard them much. But he remembered the twenty miles he must go in a cutter after the last station, for Alice waited him at the residence of a relative beyond Montreal. Her aunt had persuaded her to have the wedding there, where wealth could give its glow to the ceremony, and what girl could resist such an invitation.

'If she were only in Montreal!" murmured Russell, and the first few flakes began to drift down slowly.

Soon the air was filled with fine sharp particles. It grew colder instead of warmer, or apparently so, for the wind rose and whirled the snow very violently. It had snowed two hours when Russell alighted at the station in Montreal. It was already dark, save that the gloom had mitigated by a full moon.

He was half benumbed by cold and sitting so long, but he could not wait. Reason told him that he was a day early, and might easily stay in the city until to-morrow; but some feverish, morbid haste urged him on—it was impossible for him to rest quiet a moment. He stood a few moments by the bright fire in the waiting room.—Then he decided to go to the house occupied by Alice's parents.

Arrived at the house he learned with dismay that Alice had left two or three hours previous. Oppressed with fearful forebodings he hurried on, taking the road which his servant supposed her driver had selected. As he emerged into the open country the runners of the cutter sank deep into the snow. The horses struggled desperately thro' the drifts, while the blinding storm and benumbing cold almost overpowered him. To arouse himself from the lethargy which he felt was the precursor of death, he stepped out of the sleigh and plodded on beside it. For hours it seemed to him, he travelled, alternately walking and riding, the animals he drove being almost exhausted.

Suddenly, with a snort of surprise or alarm, his horses stopped and threw up their heads, their eyes starting in their sockets, at something indistinct in the gloom ahead.

There is something infecting in the alarm of an animal, and Russell felt his cheeks pale as he moved slowly forward, leaving the horses standing there.

A shudder like the first chill of an impending doom, shook the young man as he came upon a cutter overturned in the snow. He was close to it before he could make out what it was. There were no horses attached—that he saw in a glance—but the tugs cut short off, were fastened there. The snow had blown away from one side of the sleigh, while the other side was deeply imbedded. He leaped upon the runner, and hurriedly pulled the buffalo robes away; a fear came upon him such as he had never known before. At last, it seemed to him so long though it was hardly a moment—in that snowy moonshine he saw the pallid face of a woman lying motionless among her furs.

With a suppressed cry he lifted that beautiful form to his shoulder, and sat down on the cutter, bending his lips to the cold ones that could not respond to his caress. And yet she was not dead—a faint breath just sighed across his cheek.

Was it thus he had thought to greet his promised wife? He could not think—he knew nothing but that he had found Alice—and his whole being rose to the resolve that he would save her—that neither snow nor ice nor cold should take her from him. She was his and he claimed her despite everything.

But he could not linger there; he must be moving on, though ever so slowly. He bore his burden to his own cutter, taking with him the furs that could not save her after that fearful sleep had begun. His horses walked on again—they needed no guiding—they could find their own way better than man could direct.

Anything but intense love would have despaired in that tempest of snow with that pitiless wind freezing across the earth, raising no glow on the blue white face against his own.

He roughly chafed with snow her hands and face; but he soon saw that severer measures must be tried; that the lethargy was too deep. She dimly felt the fierce friction, for she moaned and seemed to shrink from it—a wordless request to be left alone.

Russell had forgotten the cold for himself, the snow swept by him unheeded. Again he lifted her in his arms and stepped out into the snow, letting her stand beside him, then trying to make her fight her way on—knowing that if she could once be aroused she was saved.

At first she fell down helplessly, sank inanimately with no wish to stir. But in a moment his ceaseless efforts had some effect, and he could compel her to use her muscles slightly, though her head dropped in an unknowing stupor.

Russel felt that he had never suffered before. He thought the pains and sorrows of all his life were crowded into that one night. By slow degrees, almost hopelessly slow, consciousness and horrible suffering returned.

His face was pale and sick, as he knew the agonies she endured. But pain was the signal of life, and not now would he despair.

At last she looked at him with recognizing eyes, and when everything else had failed, love reached the fountain of crimson, and sent a wave of its red to her face.

Weak, suffering, she reclined upon his arm, unable to move or to speak. Could he keep the life he had saved, through a much longer journey?

When he left the city there were a few houses scattered by the roadside for two or three miles. The dim glimmer of their lights he had seen; but since then he had noticed nothing—it was a waste through which he was riding, with no lamp of hope held out to him. And the delicate girl but half resuscitated, he thought—oh, how many miles before safety?

A half hour passed, and through Russell's brave soul had already darted the first doubt. Human endurance could not last forever, and it was more than he could do to preserve the feeble life he had recalled. In another half hour ice and cold might conquer him. He would die with her; he could not live when that dear face was beneath the sod.

A quarter of a mile further on, and he saw through the storm a dark object by the roadside. It was a building of some kind, and could shelter them. He turned his horses' heads that way and plunged through the snow to the door. There was no door. It was a dismantled log hut, with its door gone, and its one little window broken out. But it was better than the fury without, and in another five minutes Alice was sheltered from the wind. With painful and patient fumbling he succeeded in fastening the buffalo robe in front of the door way, thus forming an insufficient barrier.—Then he drew his pocket cigar case and his matches, and lighting one of latter, looked eagerly round the room in the flickering light. That glance told him that there was an immense fire place at one side of the hut, and a divine light streamed into his soul at the sight.

As his horses had dragged the cutter to the house, the runner had grated over the top rail of a fence, and the unseen post had nearly upset the cutter.

The white fingered, fair faced Englishman worked with a power that was more like fury, and when at last a ruddy blaze flew up the broad chimney, tears of joy actually started from his eyes.

Exhausted, happy, he knelt at the feet of Alice, and hid his face in her hands. With that reviving warmth came a little of strength to her weary soul. She leaned forward, a smile upon her lips and in her eyes, and murmured—

"It was heaven itself who sent you here, Robert."

Two hours later a gray dawn was struggling through the clouds; a broad strip of blue encircled the west; the wind moaned in lower tones. The old hut was golden with the wood fire—it threw its radiance over the two horses that had been led in, and stood wild and grateful in a corner, their eyes staring at the fire.

Renovated, though weak, with a happiness beyond words, warm in heart, Alice Malcolm greeted her wedding day. She had told her story to Robert—the story of her desertion in the snow. As the storm had come on more furiously, her driver, whom she believed trustworthy, announced his intention of returning. She had discovered that he was in a semi-intoxicated state, but she refused to return, and he would not go a step further, and had cut the traces, and mounting one of the horses left her to her fate.

She did not know when she spoke that a mile back, within a few miles of the city, he lay frozen to death, the eddying snow drifting over his body. He had found a fate which his mistress had escaped.

Backward through a vista of happy years, looked Russell and his wife to that night of horror in Canada, when peril revealed to them the full depth of their devotion—the infinitude of their love.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.—The most powerful and beneficial of the influences ordinarily at work in the formation of human character is that of a woman. Man in life is what he is, to a great extent, by the power of a woman. His infancy being committed to her charge, and his childhood is spent in her society, her sayings and doings first impress themselves upon him. The prayer that she taught him first to lisp is never forgotten. Her exhortations and examples are good, and her praise of generosity and noble mindedness remains fresh in memory, and prove instrumental in preserving him from many temptations and dangers, and qualifying him for the arduous and responsible duties of manhood. The noble qualities displayed by illustrious men are generally the fruit of seed sown in infancy. "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will never depart from it,' said one of old; and experience continues to this day to illustrate the truth. Napoleon attributed all his success to the sound principles taught him by his mother. Hogg's poetical talent was inspired and fostered by his mother. So with most great men; their steps have been guided by a mother's hand, and their greatness has been the result of the early tuition of a woman. But it is within the social circle that woman's influence is mostly exercised. Soothing with her smiles and cheerfulness the sons of toil, and concentrating the depressing tendencies of the world, she restores strength to the weakened frame, smooths the ruffled brow, calms the ~~careworn~~ mind, and infuses into the weary heart fresh spirits and exhilarating hopes, with which to go forth and fight the great battle of life. It is in the hour of sickness and distress woman's virtues most brightly shine. Her tender and patient care guards us through the trial. But at all times is the great ornament, the beneficent genius of home. She transforms the hovel of poverty into the palace of peace, where reigning as an enthroned monarch, she dispenses pleasures and joy to all within her circle, thus becoming a being necessary to man and to man's happiness.

MACHINERY IN THE HUMAN FRAME.—Very few, even mechanics, are aware how much machinery there is in their own bodies. Not only are there hinges and joints in the bones, but there are valves in the veins, a forcing pump in the heart, and other curiosities. One of the muscles of the eye forms a real pulley. The bones which support the body are made precisely in that form which has been calculated by mathematicians to be strongest for pillars and supporting columns—that of hollow cylinders.

A pleasant slip of the tongue is recorded by a French paragraphist.—A lady was enjoying the society of her lover, when the bell rang and the servant announced "the doctor." Tell him I am ill, and cannot see him," was madame's reply.

Japanese Carpenters.

The Japanese carpenters are ingenious workmen, and their work is done with marvellous neatness. A curious feature of their houses is, that they do not contain a nail, all of the joints and timbers being dovetailed together by many ingenious devices; and the whole work, even to the rafters, is as smooth as if it had been polished down with sandpaper. And the Japanese are a neat people; for they use no paint to hide any blemishes of constructions or ornamentations—no filigree work or plaster of Paris gewgaws, but every stick in the building is exposed. Every night, as regularly as she cooks the breakfast or sweeps the floor, the Japanese housewife takes a wet cloth and scours the whole interior of the dwelling, leaving no part untouched, and no stain or dirt spot to mar its cleanly appearance. Then the Japanese do not come into the house with muddy boots, after the style of the Amer can sovereign; but, having covered the floor with a neat matting, always remove the dirty sandals before stepping upon it. I stood and watched the Japanese carpenters at their work for some minutes, and noticed the peculiarity of their movements. The Japanese works towards him, that is, instead of shoving a plane from him, he reaches out, sets the plane upon the board at arm's length, and pulls it toward him; and he cuts, saws and chops in the same way. His saws are fixed in handles like a butcher's cleaver, and the teeth slant or rake towards the handle. The planes are constructed like ours, but the wooden portion is very thin and wide. The adze is fastened to the end of a hooped stick, like the handle of one of the crooked canes worn on the arm on our streets; and although their tools are different from ours, yet I can not observe that they are awkward in appearance or awkwardly handled.

About Matrimony.

He that takes a wife, takes care.

Never marry but for love; but see that thou lovest what is lovely.

No man can either live piously or die righteously without a wife.—Richter.

To be a man in a true sense, is, in the first place, and above all things, to have a wife.—Michelet.

The bloom or blight of all men's happiness.—Byron.

The reason why so few marriages are happy is, because young ladies spend their time in making nets, not in making cages.—Swift.

Of all actions of a man's life his marriage does least concern other people; yet, of all actions of our life, 'tis most meddled with by other people.—Selden

It is to be feared that those who marry where they do not love, will love where they do not marry.—Fuller.

In the career of female fame there are few prizes to be obtained which can vie with the obscure state of a beloved wife or a happy mother.—Jane Porter.

All the molestations of a marriage are abundantly recompensed with other comforts which God bestoweth on them who make a wise choice of a wife.—Fuller.

Courtesy.

William Wirt's letter to his daughter on the "small, sweet courtesies of life," contains a passage from which a deal of happiness might be learned:

"I want to tell you a secret. The way to make yourself pleasing to others is to show that you care for them. The world is like the miller at Mansfield, 'who cared for nobody—no, not he—because nobody cared for him.'—And the whole world will serve you so if you give them the same cause. Let every one, therefore, see that you do care for them, by showing them what Sterne so happily calls 'the small, sweet courtesies,' in which there is no parade; whose voice is to still, to ease, and which manifest themselves by tender and affectionate looks, and little kind acts of attention, giving others the preference in every little enjoyment at the table, in the field, walking, sitting, or standing."

THE WORLD WE LIVE IN.—A rough and thorny world it is, and an awkward world to get through; but it might be worse. It might be better, if every one would try in earnest to make it so. I was walking, some time ago, with a countryman, whom I observed, every now and then, to kick aside any particularly large or jagged stone that lay loose upon the horse-track. "I don't like to see a stone like that in the road," said he, "and not move it. It might trip up a horse and break a rider's neck, and 'tis very little trouble to kick it aside." O that all the passers through the world would but act on the same plan!

☞An old lady reading the market reports for the first time, stumbled upon the quotation, "Coffee, weak," and remarked, "Well, I do declare, if they don't weaken coffee now before it is parched."

☞The very careful mamma, who had bars put across the nursery windows, to protect the children, says it don't keep them from "falling out."

☞What is the difference between a railway train and a suspending bank? In one case the bank causes the stoppage, in the other the stoppage causes the break.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Tuesday morning, Nov. 29, 1870.

WM. LEWIS,
HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

The "Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

☞ Wayne McVeigh, it is said, who was appointed Minister to Turkey last winter, has had an attack of softening of the brain, and is now on his way home for the purpose of resigning his mission.

FIRST CLASS DAILIES.—The State Journal, Republican, and the Morning Patriot, Democratic, both published at Harrisburg. Any of our readers wanting a daily during the session of the Legislature, or during the year, could not do better than subscribe for one or the other of these journals.

☞ The murderous clan of the Ku-Kluxes still perpetrate outrages in Georgia. Recently a party of them went to the house of a Mr. V. A. Creech, a farmer, captured him, and then went to the store of Mr. John Creech, his brother, and after securing him they took them to a creek where the body of V. A. Creech was found the next morning, and it is supposed his brother was also murdered, although his body was not found.

☞ A private letter has been received from Governor Curtin, relative to the proposed revision of the State Constitution, in which he says:

Such a convention at this time could not fail to elevate the character of our legislation, and to redeem our political system from many of the debauching influences which have become so closely interwoven with it. It would enforce a just deference to the popular will in the enactment of laws and in the exercise of all delegated powers, and when the will of the people is respected, the good name and prosperity of the Commonwealth are never imperilled.

☞ General Schenck who was beaten for Congress in Ohio, means to contest his seat. His competitor claims his election by a majority of fifty-three Against this majority there are 348 citizens residing in his district who were disfranchised, on the ground that they were wounded in defence of their country They are inmates of the Soldiers Asylum at Dayton, who were prevented from voting for an iniquitous decision of the Supreme Court of that State. They went to the polls with ballots for Schenck in their hands and on the demand of that truly law-abiding and patriotic citizen Vallandigham, the ballots were rejected

Special Election.

A special election has been ordered by Speaker White of the Senate, on Tuesday 20th of December, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon. W. W. Watt, Republican, of the First Senatorial District, Philadelphia. The death of Mr. Watt leaves the Senate stand 16 Republicans to 16 Democrats, a tie. The district is close and both parties will work hard, early and late, to carry the district to secure the majority of one in the Senate. If the Democrats carry, there will be a difficulty in districting the State this winter, as one party will hold the Senate and the other the House. We can now see what our party has lost by the introduction of guerrillaism into this county—the loss of two Senators at a time we need them most.

STATE TREASURER.—Somebody must be elected State Treasurer again this winter. Already, the friends of Mr. Mackey, the gentleman defeated last winter by a combination of Republicans and Democrats, are urging him as the proper person to be elected. Some few Republican presses and leading politicians demand his election. Now we are unable to see why Mr. Mackey should be forced into the office over the heads of hundreds of other good Republicans as worthy as he is. He has no claims that we have heard of that would justify his friends in urging his election at the risk of distracting the party and electing a Democrat. A new man free from "rings" should be nominated and elected, and we hope the good sense of Republican Senators and Representatives will control the choice and make it creditable to the party.

☞ General James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, is named as the next Republican candidate for Auditor General. We agree with the Chambersburg Repository in saying: "The announcement is certainly in time, but that is no objection. Whoever may be nominated by the Republican party on the State ticket may make up his mind that something more than a nomination will be required to put him in possession of the office for which he is nominated. An election under existing circumstances by no means follows a Republican nomination as a matter of course, but must be worked for by the whole party as a united party, and not as it went into the campaign this fall. If the running sores in our political organization be healed it will have strength and vitality enough to elect its candidates as easily as before, but if they are allowed to eat away at its vitals as they now do, it is doubtful if we can elect anybody."

Rebel Bitterness.

And now, the intelligence reaches us from Georgia that the unreconstructed, half-whipped and un-hung mayor and city council of Savannah refused to observe the day selected by the President for Thanksgiving and selected another, to show their contempt for the head of the nation, as well as the loyal people of the North, and yet we are asked to forgive these scoundrels and take them into our councils. Since the close of the war, these wretches who were permitted to live, when they ought to have been hung as high as Haman, instead of obeying the laws and helping to heal the wounds made by the war, they have not only heaped injury upon injury, but added insult to injury and whilst we have always been amongst those who were most ready and willing to forgive and forget the past and live only for the future, we have become heartily sick and disgusted with the indignities continually offered and the contempt shown for the government by these unhung traitors, who would not have been permitted to live an hour after their surrender, by any other nation or people under the sun. We do not complain of the simple fact of their Mayor and City Council refusing to observe the day set apart by the President as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer, but because it shows the animus which governs them, and indicates the bitterness with which they are possessed, and what they would do if they only had the power. By permission of the most lenient government the world ever saw, they have been left to live out their unworthy existence, and yet they spurn the hand and despise the power that gave them that privilege. It is high time that a new era be inaugurated in the South, and if by letting them alone to govern themselves in their own way is not sufficient to induce them to acknowledge their fealty to the National Government, then the strong arm of that government ought to be interposed to make them feel that there are certain fixed principles laid down which all are bound to recognize and respect, and that nothing else will be accepted.

☞ The Globe last week said the people spoke out in thunder tones against the administration of Gen. Grant. How is that for a paper that pretends to be Republican.—Cremer's Republican.

Can't a paper speak the truth and still be Republican? The great Republican party of '68 is not as strong to-day as it was then, or as it was a year ago. Blunders by Gen. Grant, as well as greater ones by U. S. Senators and Congressmen, have been the cause of Republican losses in almost every State, and there is no use trying to cover up such facts. But it is not too late to save the party from defeat at the next Presidential election.—Blunders must be avoided in the future—old sores must be healed up, and the party in one solid column must move forward to victory with Grant or any other man selected by the Convention as our candidate for '72.

Cremer should be the last man to find fault with the Republicanism of any paper. Two years ago when he was out of politics, this county gave near twelve hundred Republican majority—since then he started a guerrilla ball in motion and it has rolled on until our majority has been heavily reduced. If there had been no guerrilla ball put in motion in '69, Mr. Morrell, our two Senators, two Representatives, all, would have been elected at the late election. Who is responsible for our losses?

Summary of War News.

All the German forces are now concentrating at Paris, to form a defensive semi-circle from Etampes, by way of Chartres and Dreux, to Montes, with Frederick Charles on the south, the Duke of Mecklenburg on the west and General Manteuffel on the north.

Bourbaki has arrived at Tours from Lille to command the 18th corps. A great battle is imminent. The design seems to be to pierce the enemy's centre at Etampes by a column of 150,000 strong moving from Angarville, while simultaneous attacks will be made all along his attenuated line West and North-east of Etampes.

The siege of Montmedy continues.—The garrison made a successful sortie on the 7th, and 500 Germans were either killed, wounded or captured.

The bombardment of Thionville by the Prussians is very active. The shots average about eighteen a minute.

STEAMER BURNED.—The steamer City of Bridgeton was destroyed by fire on Tuesday morning while lying at her landing below Arch street, Philadelphia. She was heavily laden with freight, valued at $15,000, consigned to parties in that city, and had quite a number of passengers aboard. All but one lady are known to have escaped safely, although several were considerably singed and blistered.—The steamer was valued at $65,000.—The total loss by the disaster will therefore foot up $80,000, upon which there is no insurance.

☞ The Republican majority in the House of Representatives of 8 or 9 makes it pretty certain that the next Speaker will be a Republican, and Strang of Tioga, the last Speaker, Webb, of Bradford, and McJunkin, of Venango, are spoken of for the position.

The Siamese Twins Outdone.

One of the most singular prodigies ever heard of.

Ten days ago the wife of Samuel Finley, a farmer residing in Morrow county about five miles southeast of Ashley, gave birth to one of the most singular malformations of the human species ever heard of in any age or country. The accouchment took place at the home of the mother, and owing to its suddenness,—not more than half an hour being occupied,—only in the presence of a female attendant by whose rare discretion the singularity of the being just brought into the world was concealed from its maternal parent. The mother was not allowed a sight of her offspring until after the physician who had been summoned arrived, when it was exhibited to her, and, as we are told, caused her to swoon. And no wonder, for human eyes probably never looked upon such an anamolous developement of the human form.

One of our prominent physicians who has seen and examined this strange freak of nature favors us with the following clear and accurate description:

"This wonderful thing can be truly called a double child. There is but one spine, at each extremity of which there is a perfectly formed head and face. Each has well formed shoulders, arms and hands, and a good chest containing lungs and heart, as any other human being. Each has also a stomach and liver. There is but one navel, which is in the centre of the abdomen, equidistant from the two heads. It is at the middle of the body that the two are grown together. The abdomen appears to be but one, and the organs contained in it, below the stomach and small intestines, are probably common to the two; as there is but one external outlet.

"Upon one side, at right angles to the body, there is a well-formed pair of hips, legs and feet. Upon the opposite side there is one large leg, (possibly the consolidation of two legs), upon the extremity of which there are eight toes. Most monstrosities are repugnant to look upon. This one is not so in any respect, excepting this leg.

"This child, or those children, are now ten days old and are doing as well as most children do at that period of existence. It nurses at both heads, One will sleep while the other is crying, and sometimes both will sleep or cry at the same time. The natural outlets from the body are in their natural position, between the perfect pair of legs, and are common to the two, there being no outlet upon the opposite side. In sex it is a female. The length from the top of one head to the top of the other is twenty inches, and the weight at birth, was ten pounds.

Here, certainly, is a problem for psychologists as well as physiologists. Is this one being with one will and one sentience, or two beings each having independent will and consciousness and different desires, impulses and feelings, or is it "two souls with but a single thought," spiritually wedded and transfused as they are physically united? Many circumstances go to establish the theory of two individual existences, notwithstanding the identity of sex and the intimacy of physical union. Persons who have seen this inexplicable phenomenon inform us that while one half of it—or perhaps we should say, one of those blended existences—has been seen crying and in the active use of its limbs, the other was at the same time calmly asleep, and while the two legs on one side of the body were in motion the single one on the other side, apparently under the control of a different will, would be undisturbed. At the same hour one of these strange beings—if indeed there are two—will be sick, while the other seems to be at the same instant enjoying perfect health; one may weep, and the other appear to be at the same time perfectly unconscious of distress.

There are no terms in our language applicable to such a phenomenon; it is something for which the dictionary makers have made no provision whatever, and which utterly confounds all grammatical rules, as to gender, number and persons. Let any one undertake to write about it, being precise as to the meaning and application of terms, and he will at once recognize the boverty of language.

As might be expected, the house of Mr. Finley has during the past ten days been overrun with visitors to witness this wonderful curiosity. So great is the press that it has been found necessary to charge an admission fee which is now fixed at one dollar. We understand the parents have been offered ten thousand dollars for the dual infant, the offer being unconditional as to whether it should live or not. The offer has not been, and probably will not be accepted.

HORRIBLE OUTRAGE AND ROBBERY.—James F. Shoop, of Philipsburgh, has been engaged during the summer in Huntingdon county, hauling bark. On the ninth inst. about 8 o'clock, P. M., on his return, within two miles of home, he was met by three men who told him to halt, and pointing a pistol at him demanded his money. They gagged him with a stout chestnut limb, bound his wrists with a halter chain, and then took from him his pocket book containing $423—the whole amount of his season's work, and the sale of one of his mules. After throwing his empty pocket book into the wagon, they bent down a stout saplin, and inserted it under the chain between his wrists, and then let it spring back, the weight of Mr. Shoop barely sufficing to give him a foot hold upon the ground, his arms extended above his head by the tension, and his head thrown back by the gag. In this position they left him, and he was not discovered till 6 o'clock the next morning, having suffered terribly during the cold night. If these villains should be discovered they ought to be lynched.—Philipsburg Journal.

Californians, owing to the alkaline taste of most of the waters in the state are the greatest coffee drinkers in the country, the average yearly consumption being 16 3-5 pounds, while in the union at large the average is only seven pounds.

☞ The printer wasn't more than a mile out of the way when he made the druggist's sign read: "Physicians' prescriptions carefully confounded."

BEST FAMILY SOAP

Liberal Inducements to Purchasers.

A Plan Deserving the Attention of Every Family.

THE MYRTLE SOAP COMPANY

is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New York; and transacting its business through the Agency of Danforth Brothers, at 40 Murray street, New York City. It offers to the public its in boxes of 40 lbs., at $5 a box, and gives purchasers an opportunity for dividends on each box—the dividends ranging from $5 to $25,000. On each 10,000 boxes sold and as soon as each 10,000 shall be sold, there will be 327 cash dividends made, varying from $5 to $50, and amounting to $2,500. And when 50,000 boxes shall have been sold, there will be a Final Grand Dividend of $32,000—viz:

A BROWN STONE HOUSE,

Brooklyn, (the deed of which has been left with the Safe Deposit Company, 146 and 148 Broadway), in trust of the purchaser of the fortunate box, and the balance in cash dividends, from $5 to $1,000 each. There will be in 1,536 Serial Dividends, and 836 Final Dividends, making 2,501 dividends in all.

$45,000 DIVIDEND to PURCHASERS

Purchasers of the

will receive a properly numbered bill of purchase for each and every box purchased, the holders of which will share in the dividends in each of the 10,000 boxes to which their bills of purchase belong, and then ALL will share in the Final Grand Dividend, when 50,000 boxes shall have been sold.

NOT A GIFT ENTERPRISE.

This should not be classed with the numerous gift enterprise humbugs, It is an honest and legitimate business plan for introducing to public notice the Superior Goods of an Established and Reputable Corporation.—The plan is set forth in detail in the Circulars of the Company, which can be had at 40 Murray street or of any of the numerous local agents, and in which reference is made, by permission to a large number of well-known business and public men as to the integrity and honorable management of the Myrtle Soap Company.

THE SOAP HAS NO SUPERIOR.

Purchasers will get a box of soap at as low a price as the same quantity can be purcased in any market; ad article warranted to be of the very first quality of family and laundry soap.

It washes cleaner and quicker than any other soap with less labor.

It is invaluable to Mechanics, Printers, Painters. and others using inks, oils, &c.

It saves time, as clothes wash quicker.

It saves money, as one pound will go as far as two of ordinary soap.

It will make the best Soft Soap at a very small cost and very little labor.

It removes Grease spots, Paint, etc., from clothing.

It cleanses and softens the skin, not chapping.

It is equally good for the Bath, Toilet and Shaving.

It saves labor and clothes need less rubbing.

It will not injure the fines fabric.

Is is put up in boxes, 50 bars, 40 pounds.

It is stamped with the name of the Company on each bar.

It is an article every family wants and must have.

It is an article worth every cent paic for it.

And in addition to this, without the risk or loss of one cent purchasers will share in the liberal dividends to be made.

☞ Ask your grocer for it; if he does not keep it and will not get it, please write to us, and we will send it to you or send you the address of the nearest grocer who keeps it.

A thought—do people nowadays think more of giving thanks on Thanksgiving day than they do of eating a big dinner?

We call attention to the advertisement of the N. Y Methodist in another column. It is one of the best religious and family papers in the country.

Autumn continues to repose in the lap of winter, and we have had delightful weather, such as would puzzle the most morose to find the "melancholy."

A son of Mr. N. Keister, residing at Apple Creek, Ohio, recently performed the extraordinary feat of husking one hundred and three bushels of corn in twelve hours. He is but fourteen years of age.

In the United States just now there are 27 young women studying theology, with a view to becoming preachers; 19 are studying law, and 67 are studying medicine.

Mr. Jesse Sheaffer, of Tyrone township, Perry county, in company with a few other hunters, caught seven coons and shot two wild turkeys during one night's hunt the other week.

Mr. Alex. Denny, of this place, lost a valuable 400 pounds hog by death the night before it was to be butchered. That may have been good luck for the porker, but bad for Alex.

The Academy of Fine Arts of Philadelphia, have just purchased property on the corner of Broad and Cherry streets, paying theref r $100,000, and there the institution is to be located.

Some of the stones on the walk between Huntingdon and Portstown have been removed and plank inserted. We think the change is for the better and might be still further extended.

How true it is that the curse of workingmen is intemperance. How many of them would be rich, intelligent and happy if they would save their money, subscribe for a paper, and honor their wife.

The year 1871 will begin on Sunday and end on Sunday, so that there will be fifty-three "first" days next year. Those who unwisely put off doing better until the first of the year will have a good day to begin with.

Two Englishmen named William Ebser and P. Gaunders, residing in Chicago, who were out of work, met on Sunday, talked over their troubles and finally concluded to take poison. They procured arsenic, and death finished their work.

Washington county contains twenty-five persons between the ages of ninety and ninety-five years, and four who are over one hundred years old. One of the latter, Robert Collins, is 108, and can still read without spectacles.

Owing to the exceedingly favorable fall, the fields of growing wheat present an unusually fine appearance.—The weather has been very favorable for farm work of the season, and our enterprising farmers have made good use of it.

Why is it that some persons when out "calling" will ask a lady to play the piano, and when she commences get up a conversation on the weather, the cat, or something else? They want to show their good culture, we suppose.

Scientific men have recently discovered that the poison taken into the system from the continual smoking of tobacco will cause death in 167 years Those addicted to the use of the weed will make a reckoning how many days they have yet to live.

Thanksgiving day was appropriately observed in this place by a large majority of our people. Religious services were held in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, in the morning. Why it is though that some think they can't give thanks unless they eat too much and get tight we can't tell.

An altercation occurred in Altoona recently between two men named Ardle and Burkholder, about a reserved seat in the Opera House. A few days afterwards Ardle attacked Burkholder when the latter took out a knife and cut him in several places, but not dangerously.

The next Good Templars District Convention was decided at the last Convention to be held in Huntingdon. We think this is a little on the surprise order, as there is now no Good Templars' Lodge in this place. If the Convention will meet here, something definite in regard to arrangements should be effected at once.

He Don't Take a Paper.—On Thursday last, one of our "country cousins" came to town with a load of pig meat which he sold at as good a market figure as he could learn from his intelligent neighbor, we presume. After disposing of his pork he told an individual that he must go up street and make some purchases. The friend told him:

"Why, this is Thanksgiving day, and none of the stores are open."

"How does that come?" said the farmer; "when did Sunday come the middle of the week?"

"Oh!" said the other, "didn't you know that on Thanksgiving day the stores are closed, business is suspended, and people go to church?"

"Why, no," *replied the sturdy yeo*man, "I never heard about it, and I guess I'd better go home."

The pork-seller know enough to sell his pork, but didn't know anything about keeping a Thanksgiving day, and he will "like as not" do the same thing next Thanksgiving, unless he subscribes for a paper.

How many more are like him?

Civil List.—The following civil cases were disposed of last week:

Wm. Richinson vs Daniel Helsel and John B. Weaver. Cause reached. Jury found for the Plff. $149 14.

J. B. Farquar and S. B. Replogle for use vs John B. Weaver. Cause reached. Jury found for the plaintiff and found a reduction of the judgment of $85.

Hugh Gallaher vs Andrew Comry. Cause reached. Jury found for the Plff. $32.25.

Emeline Lane for use vs Dorsey Silknitter. Cause reached. Jury found for the Deft.

Commonwealth vs Hugh Trimbath. New trial granted.

Is It True?—On Saturday last it was rumored on our streets that a woman had been brutally murdered near Broad Top City. The rumor runs that on Friday morning, the day after Thanksgiving, a gentleman named Mr. Griffy went to the house of a widow lady named Morrison, and discovered her lying dead on the floor, with bed clothes over her, stabbed in the breast. She kept boarders, and whether the murder was committed to rob or not is not known. The whole thing is a mystery and we place no credence in the rumor until we learn further particulars from that quarter.

Co. Com.—Abram B Miller, the new County Commissioner, entered upon his duties last week, Samuel Cummins retiring. The following appointments were made by the Board for the ensuing year:

Henry W. Miller, Clerk; Archibald Hutchison, Mercantile Appraiser; Dr. D. P. Miller, Physician for the jail and we are pleased to note our young friend J. Hall Musser has been continued as Attorney.

How Beautiful is Truth.—In this naughty world wherein hearts are often estranged, and recriminations, assaults and crimes engendered, how beautiful is the true thought, word and deed! 'Tis like the sun smiling out amid the angry storm; like the bright stars shining through the heavy night-cloud; like friend grasping the hand of friend; like right robbing wrong—like Luke Riley casting all opposition into the shade. Yes, reader, this is a first-class establishment, wholesale, and retail, and what you cannot get there you need not trouble yourself to go or send to Philadelphia after. Mr Riley is a Philadelphian and makes his own candy and toys, that cannot be surpassed by any house in the State. If you doubt it, reader, drop in and see for yourself, and our word for it you will come away saying to yourself, "That's it, I know now where to go for my Christmas fixings; to the Excelsior establishment—no place else."

And to persons at a distance we would say:

If there is anything wanting in Riley's line,
Make out your bills and send them in time,
If you go up to Moore you may happen to meet,
But you'll certainly find him on Railroad street.

Pittsburg Female College.—This institution is so widely and favorably known that it is almost superfluous to call attention to it. As many are preparing, however, to send their daughters to school during the winter, and as the selection of a suitable school is one of the most difficult and important questions challenging the attention of parents, we take this opportunity to direct their attention to the Pittsburgh Female College. It employs twenty-three teachers—thus enabling the trustees not only to have full departments in the literary course, but special departments for all the ornamental branches. All who have daughters to educate are most earnestly urged to call and make themselves acquainted with the facilities and advantages afforded. The winter term will open December 12th. Send to Rev. I. C. Pershing. D. D., Pittsburgh, Pa., for a catalogue.

The Huntingdon Guards.—The Juniata Republican gives "our boys" the following "complimentary:"

"This was the only regular military organization in attendance at the dedication of the Soldiers' Monument, on Thursday last, and the fine appearance of the men called forth the commendation of every person. The officers of the company, Captain W. K. Burchinell and Lieut. John Hight, are both 'vets,' and know how to command in time of peace as well as in time of war. As the company marched by, we have no doubt the sound of the fife and drum with their 'left, left, left,' called to the remembrance of many of the Juniata boys the time when they, too, wore the blue, and the mind would revert to many sweet or sorrowful recollections of army life."

To Cure Diptheria.—A gentleman, says an exchange, who has administered the following remedy for diptheria, informs us that it has always proved effectual in affording speedy relief. Take a common tobacco pipe, place a live coal within the bowl, drop a little tar upon the coal, and let the patient draw smoke into the mouth and discharge it through the nostrils. The remedy is safe and simple, and should be tried whenever occasion may require. Many valuable lives may be saved, our informant confidently believes, by prompt treatment as above.

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY

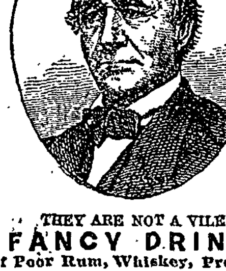
VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?



FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. ☞ Send for a circular.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Head ache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when! Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung disease and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best of all places on this continent for this purpose in winter, is Florida, well down in the State, where the temperature is regular, and not subject to such variations as in more Northern latitudes. Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterman. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point I would prefer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing. Mendonville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Medonville. It is two miles from river, or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times but that is good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hiberdia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State out of the reach of prevailing east winds and fogs Sacksonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, deranged bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseased a more southern point is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1869, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of "Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills," and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida, nearly everybody is using Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce bilious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one third, at least of the population die of this terrible disease. In the middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly is, to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Sryup Schenck's Seaweed Tonic, and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest.—The physician who prescribes for cold cough or night-sweats, and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with printed directions, except in some cases where a freer use of the Mandrake Pills is necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach—to get up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish comes good blood and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs. Then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night-sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy° which should be kept regularly at this point, by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limits of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treatment is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills, and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption. Go where you will, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver better than calomel, and leave none of its hurtful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required, If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhoea ensues, a dose of the Mandrakes will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache, take a dose of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and watermelons, pears, apples, plumbs, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protect those who live in damp situations against chills and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars The Respirometer declares the actual condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of the medicines depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

I conclusion, I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, yet no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.

ROSADALIS

THE Great American Health Restorer, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and thousand of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore says:

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of all alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula and secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesboro' Tennessee, says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by John Read and S. S. Smith, Huntingdon, Pa., and Druggists generally.

WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY HORACE GREELEY.

XXXIX.

SCIENCE IN AGRICULTURE.

I am not a scientific farmer; it is not probable that I ever shall be. I have no such knowledge of Chemistry and Geology as any man needs to make him a thoroughly good farmer. I am quite aware that men have raised good crops—a good many of them—who knew nothing of science, and did not consider any acquaintances with it conducive to efficiency or success in their vocation. I have no doubt that men will continue to grow such crops, and to make money by agriculture, who hardly know what is meant by Chemistry or Geology; and yet I feel sure that, as the years roll by, science will more and more be recognized and accepted as the true, substantial base of efficient and profitable cultivation. Let me here give briefly the grounds of this conviction:

Every plant is composed of elements whereof a very small portion is drawn from the soil, while the ampler residue so long as the plant continues green and growing, is mainly water, though a variable and often considerable proportion is imbibed or absorbed from the atmosphere, which is understood to yield freely nearly all the elements required of it, provided the plants are otherwise in healthful and thrifty condition. Water is supplied from the sky, or from springs and steeams; and little more than the most ordinary capacity for observation is required to determine when it is present in sufficient quantity, when in baleful excess. But who, unaided by science, can decide whether the soil does or does not contain the elements requisite to the luxuriant growth and perfect development of wheat, or fruit, or grass, or beets, or apples? Who knows, save as he blindly infers from results, what mineral ingredients of this or that crop are deficient in a given field, and what are present in excess? And how shall any one be enlightened and assured on the point, unless by the aid of Science?

I have bought and applied to my farm some two thousand bushels of lime, and ten or a dozen tuns of plaster; and I infer, from what seemed to be results, that each of these minerals has been applied with profit; but I do not know it. The increased product which I have attributed to one or both of these elements may have had a very different origin and impulse. I only grope my way in darkness, when I should clearly and surely see.

An agricultural essayist in Maine has recently put forth a canon which, if well grounded, is of great value to farmers. He asserts that the growth of acid plants like sorrel, dock, &c., in a field results from sourness in the soil; and that where it exists Lime—that is, the ordinary Carbonate of Lime—is urgently required; whereas the application of plaster or gypsum (Sulphate of Lime) to that field must be useless and wasteful. If such be the truth, a knowledge of it would be worth millions of dollars to our farmers. But I lack the scientific attainment needed to qualify me for passing judgment thereon.

There is great diversity of opinion among farmers with regard to the value of Swamp Muck. One has applied it his land to good purpose; so he holds Muck, if convenient, the cheapest and best fertilizer a farmer can add to his ordinary barn-yard manure; another has applied cords upon cords of Muck, and says he has derived therefrom no benefit whatever.—Now, this contrariety of conclusion may result from the condition precedent to the diverse soil; one of them requiring what Muck could supply, while the other required something very different from that; or it may be accounted for by the fact that the Muck applied in one case was of superior quality, and in the other good for nothing. Where muck is composed almost wholly of the leaves of forest trees which, through thousands of years, have been blown into a bog, or shallow pond, and there been gradually transformed into a fine black dust or earth, I do not see how it can possibly be applied to an upland, especially a sandy or gravelly soil, without conducting the subsequent production of bounteous crops. True, it may be sour when first drawn from the stagnant pool or bog in which it has lain so long, and may need to be mixed with lime, or salt, or ashes, and subjected to the action of the sun and frost, to ripen and sweeten it. But it seems to me impossible that such muck should be applied to almost any reasonably dry land, without improving its consistency and increasing its fertility. But all muck is not the product of decayed forest leaves; and that which was formed of coarse, rank weeds and brakes, of rotten wood and flags, or skunk cabbage, may be of very inferior quality, so as hardly to repay the cost of digging and applying it. Science will yet enable us to fix, at least approximately, the value of deposit of Muck, and so as to give a preference to the best.

The analysis of soils, whereof much was heard and whence much was hoped a few years since, seems to have fallen into utter discredit, so that every would-be popular writer gives it a passing fling or kick. That any analysis yet made was and is worthless, I can readily concede, without shaking in the least my conviction that soils will be analyzed, under the guidance of a truer, profounder Science, to the signal enlightenment and profit of their cultivators Here is a retired merchant, banker, doctor, or lawyer, who has bought a spacious and naturally fertile but worn-out, run-down farm, on which he proposes to spend the remainder of his days. Of course, he must improve and enrich it; but with what? and how? All the manure he finds, or, for the present, can make on it, will hardly put the first acre in high condition, while he grows old and is unwilling to wait forever. He is able and ready to buy fertilizers, and does buy right and left, without knowing whether his land needs lime, or phosphate, or potash, or something very different from either. Say he purchases $2,000 worth of one or more of these fertilizers. It is highly probable that $1,500 might have served him better if invested in due proportion in just what his lands most urgently needs; and I unflinchingly believe that we shall have an analysis of soils that will tell him just what fertilizers he ought to apply, and what quantity of each of them.

Science has already taught us that every load of Hay or Grain drawn from a field abstracts therefrom a considerable quantity of certain minerals, say Potash, Lime, Soda, Magnesia, Chlorine, Silica, Phosphorous, and that the soil is thereby impoverished until they be replaced, in some form or other. As no deposit in a bank was ever so large that continual drafts would not ultimately exhaust it, so no soil was ever so rich that taking crop after crop from it annually, yet giving nothing back, would not render it sterile or worthless. Sun and rain and wind will do their part in the work of renovation; but all of them together cannot restore to the soil the mineral elements whereof each crop takes a portion, and which, being once completely exhausted, can only be replaced at a heavy cost. Science teaches us to foresee and prevent such exhaustion—in part by a rotation of crops, and in part by a constant replacement of the minerals annually borne away; the subtraction being greater in proportion as the crop is more exacting and luxuriant.

What I know of science as applicable to farming is little indeed; but I know that there is such science, and that each succeeding year enlarges, improves, and perfects it. I know that I should thus far have farmed to far better purpose, if I had been master even of so much science as already exists; and I am confident that the good farmers of the next generation will fertilize and till their lands at less cost and to better purpose by the aid of that Agricultural Science which the years just before us will rapidly and constantly develop.

ADDRESS

TO THE

NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED.

WHOSE SUFFERINGS HAVE BEEN PROTRACTED

FROM HIDDEN CAUSES, AND WHOSE

CASES REQUIRE

PROMPT TREATMENT.

TO RENDER EXISTENCE DESIRABLE

If you are suffering, or have suffered, from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urine organs, or your kidneys, get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky or flocky, or is it ropy on settling? Or does a thick skum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so, do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver complaint?

Now, reader, self-abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose organs are in perfect health? You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged, they are always polite and pleasant in company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitution, but those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in these organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—idiocy, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every form of disease humanity is heir to—and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

COUGHS, SORE THROAT, ETC

No medicine or treatment can excel the powerful curative power of

WHITE PULMONIC BALSAM.

It cures with a rapidity unequalled by any other remedy offered for throat and lung diseases. It is recommended by over 2,000 persons in Wilmington, and hundreds in Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities and communities throughout the country. Mr. Pennington, of Wilmington, Illinois, writes that there is not (with a few exceptions) a family in that city who will be without it if possible to procure it. Such is its popularity wherever it is known—and this popularity arises from the fact that it universally cures all who use it. There is no case of

COUGHS, COLDS, SORE THROAT,

ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, CROUP,

BLOOD SPITTING, HOARSENESS, and even Pulmonary Consumption, where the system is not broken down with the wear of the disease, or pretended medicine, or inexperienced advice, that this Balsam will not cure if carefully used according to directions. We guarantee it all we represent it be, and invite a trial from the afflicted everywhere. Price 50 cts., medium size, and $1 for large size bottles. Prepared only by
